

Peter Buglass

Over 35 eventful years at senior management or director level across industries I have learned a thing or two about working with people, making things happen, solving problems and seeing the bigger picture. I now work with directors and boards to make them more effective, better at dealing with problems, and show them how to take time over the important issues. A Chartered Director and Chartered Surveyor with a passion for understanding how people work, particularly around leadership and culture. Currently working in cloud services, education, manufacturing support, finance and strategic property development.
